given by:

Professor Dipak Kotecha, MBChB PhD (Clinical Cardiology) PCAP
MSc (Clinical Trials) FRCP FESC FHEA

Professor of Cardiology at the University of Birmingham and Consultant Cardiologist at University Hospitals Birmingham NHS Trust

Prof. Dipak Kotecha is a Professor of Cardiology at the University of Birmingham, and a Consultant Cardiologist at University Hospitals Birmingham NHS Trust, specialising in cardiac imaging. He completed a prestigious National Institute for Health Research (NIHR) Fellowship and received honours in 2018 from the British Cardiovascular Society (Michael Davies Medal) and 2023 from the UK Department of Health & Social Care (N3 National Clinical Impact Award).

Prof. Kotecha leads global innovation teams to implement new technology and health data to benefit the care of patients, supported by public engagement. He is Chief Investigator of clinical trials in the UK and internationally, including the DaRe2THINK programme (embedding a clinical trial platform in primary care across NHS England) and STEEER-AF (using education to improve patient care across six countries). Dipak leads on major regional and global approaches in health data science, including theme lead for the NIHR Birmingham Biomedical Research Centre, the NHS West Midlands Secure Data Environment, and Europe-wide programmes such as BigData@Heart and HYPERMARKER. He is chairing the European Society of Cardiology guidelines on the management of patients with atrial fibrillation.
